

DAMON McCLURE
Director, Acquisition Services

As the Acquisition Services Director, Damon McClure is responsible for planning and overseeing the management of GPO's acquisition programs which includes e-passports, FDsys, passport and newsprint paper, etc. Acquisition Services' mission is to provide superior quality acquisition and procurement services to the Government Publishing Office as well as to, contractors and other stakeholders to acquire and procure all goods and services in the most effective and efficient manner.

Biography

McClure has nearly 20 years of acquisitions experience in the Federal Government. Before joining GPO, McClure worked at the General Services Administration (GSA)'s Federal Acquisition Service and Federal Supply Service offices. While at GSA, McClure managed acquisition programs generating billions of dollars in annual revenue and worked with Government executives, industry representatives, and stakeholders to develop customer focused acquisition solutions. He was also detailed to the Department of State to support the G8 Summit Office where he managed the accommodations for the G8 Summit's 7,000 attendees, including security and legal policies for heads of state. Prior to GSA, McClure served in various acquisition positions in other executive branch agencies, including the Department of Defense, Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Department of Homeland Security.

McClure earned his Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from Bowie State University in Bowie, Maryland and his Master's in Business Administration from Strayer University.